2.3 Selection Process

2.3.1 Eligibility Criteria

The academic achievements of the women early career researcher and her ability to successfully pursue the goal to become a professor are of the utmost importance. Since the Bavarian state government promoted equal opportunities for women in research and teaching, in particular in STEM subjects, applicants of faculties, where the proportion of women is below average will be given preference in the selection process.

2.3.2 Faculty Awarding Committee

The members of the faculty awarding committee headed by the faculty women's representative cast their vote on the quality of the applications. Apart from the faculty women's representative, the awarding committee usually consists of the dean, the dean of research and further specialists in the field.

Should there be several applications from one faculty, these should be ranked and a brief explanation should be submitted.

2.3.3 Central Awarding Committee

The final selection is made by the central committee which consists of the university women's representative, her deputies and the vice president for research and promotion of young researchers. The central awarding committee may form a waiting list of applicants, who may receive funding if the amount of funds is higher than previously expected.

3 General Information and Funding Guidelines

3.1 Funding Period

Funding always begins on the first or 15th of a given month.

3.2 Childcare Benefits

For children under the age of 12 additional childcare benefits may be paid upon request. The monthly amount for one child is 300 euros, for each additional child 100 euros will be granted. A copy of the birth certificate of each child must be submitted with the application.

3.3 Employment and Teaching

The scholarship holders should work full-time on their research projects. Simultaneously, the faculty must guarantee a close institutional connection (especially as far as scholarships for postdocs or habilitation candidates are concerned), which can be achieved by teaching activities.

- a) Completion scholarships for doctoral candidates: scholarship holders can be involved in a regular employment which must not exceed 40 hours per month.
- b) Postdoc and habilitation scholarships: holders of postdoc or habilitation scholarships are generally obliged to two hours of teaching per week during each term. An additional two hours per week are permitted. Further additional employment is not allowed.

3.3 Additional Scholarships and Social Security Benefits

In general, scholarship holders cannot receive another scholarship. Furthermore, it is not possible to receive a scholarship and unemployment benefits at the same time. The receiving of parental benefits needs to be indicated and can lead to an exclusion of scholarship eligibility.

3.4 Subsequent Applications, „Reallocation of Funding“, Extension

Subsequent applications for postdoc or habilitation scholarships can only be considered in exceptional cases, and their consideration depends on the allocation of means by the ministry; the necessity of this subsequent funding must be justified.

The change of the scholarship type due to the scholarship holder's changed academic situation (for example, change from doctoral completion scholarship to postdoc or habilitation scholarship) is not possible.

Funding can only be granted for the duration of the requested period. An extension of funding is not possible.

3.5 Maternity Leave

Subject to funds provided by the ministry, the scholarship shall be extended by the period of statutory maternity leave if it overlaps with the regular funding period. An informal written request with a copy of a medical certificate must be presented.

3.6 Part-time Scholarships

In exceptional cases, part-time scholarships which comprise half of the regular funding may be granted upon request. Researchers with children under the age of two may be eligible for a part-time scholarship with reduced payments in case of childcare obligations or part-time work of the other parent. However, this does not extend the maximum funding period. After six months of funding, the part-time scholarship holder must report to the university women's representative on her progress.

3.7 Interrupting the Scholarship Period

Upon written request, the scholarship can be interrupted for a maximum period of six months. Payments will be suspended at the beginning of the interruption.

3.8 Stay Abroad During the Scholarship Period

During the funding period, temporary stays abroad for research purposes are possible. During these research stays the scholarship holders are eligible to receive payments. However, additional benefits (e.g. travel costs, accommodation expenses, etc.) cannot be granted. The "Koordinationsstelle Chancengleichheit" must be informed about the stay abroad.

3.9 Social Security

The scholarships do not establish an employment relationship. The payments are not subject to social insurance contributions as they are not a remuneration. Consequently, the scholarship does not include any social security or health insurance contributions. The scholarship holders themselves are responsible for their own health insurance coverage and must cover other risks privately.

3.10 Applicants with Foreign Nationality

In order to be eligible, applicants with a foreign citizenship need to have their main place of residence in the Federal Republic of Germany at the time of application. Applicants who already receive funding by their home country for their stay in Germany are not eligible.

3.11 Notification Obligation

The scholarship holder must immediately notify the "Koordinationsstelle Chancengleichheit" and "Referat II/7" of any changes which might influence their entitlement to the scholarship.

3.12 Final Report/Report on Expenditure of Funds

No later than eight weeks after the end of funding, every scholarship holder must provide a report on the expenditure of funds. Depending on the type of scholarship, this entails:

a) Doctorate Beginning scholarships

Final report on the entire funding period and statement on further planning (maximum two pages).

b) Doctorate Completion scholarships of dissertation or habilitation:

a report on the progress of the research project copy of the doctoral certificate or the habilitation certificate

If the process of dissertation or habilitation is not completed at the end of the funding period, but the completion is in the foreseeable future, a message via e-mail to chancengleichheit@ur.de on the date of completion is sufficient. A copy of the respective certificate is to be submitted unsolicited as soon as the scholarship holder receives it.

If the scholarship recipient cannot complete her research project as intended until the end of the funding period, she must present a statement (maximum two pages) in which she states the reasons for the delay and describes the planned continuation of the project. The report should comprise the whole funding period. A copy of the certificate is to be presented unsolicited after the completion of the degree.

c) Scholarships for the initial phase of postdoc and habilitation:

A final report on the whole funding period and a statement on further plans (maximum two pages). A copy of the admission as a habilitation candidate or the habilitation certificate needs to be presented after admission or completion.

3.13 Evaluation

For evaluation purposes, the scholarship holders are encouraged to inform the "Koordinationsstelle Chancengleichheit" about essential and successful steps towards their goal of becoming a professor even after the end of funding.
